As I write this, a beautiful spring day is evolving. The recent weather has not been spring like, so this day is wonderful.

Mother's Day is Sunday, a day in an Italian household of two generations ago was the second most revered holiday. Only Easter was more important and celebrated. The mother in the household was most important. She brought up the kids, prepared the food, did the shopping and cleaned the house. In fact, she did all other related duties as required. No one questioned mom's authority. She was the boss. Rarely did her husband even question her requests. For that generation, the role of the husband was only that of the provider.

This now has changed for the better, however, mom is still the most important person in the family and should be treated that way. So on Mother's Day please give a mother the reverence she deserves.

Most of our Kiwanis activities begin soon, so please help wherever you can. The success of these programs result in the good that we do.
